The story

I began this painting on New Year's Eve 2022 and completed it in spring 2023. I worked on it through illness, breaking through a creative impasse. I brought together the phases of a fish's leap, pearl-white paint and an LED firefly.

Special pearl-white paint was used in the middle of the water. It heightens the impression of light reflecting off the pond's surface. An LED now sits where a screwdriver once pierced the painting – a firefly hovering over the water. A small circuit on the back lets you switch on its light.
